

Empowering Writers

Powered by Cosmos to deliver curriculum to district partners, schools, and teachers in a format that matches the way people consume information today.

Empowering Writers was looking for a way to increase teacher engagement while improving their understanding of the Empowering Writers approach to writing instruction. At the time, teacher resources were in a variety of formats (on demand video, print resources, student content) which teachers had to weave together for use in the classroom.

While the content was effective, many teachers were not taking the time to access the resources that districts had invested in. Cosmos provided the solution that brought their coaching video library, print resources, and direct student content into one seamless location.

The feedback has been tremendous! Teachers love the user interface and having everything they need to teach a lesson all in central place. The lessons are more engaging and impactful through video and PowerPoint presentations. Today, Empowering Writers is planning new and exciting student content for the future and the Cosmos team is thrilled to be their strategic partner each step of the way.

Health World

Delivering e-learning programs to school districts throughout the United States.

Health World is a non-profit dedicated to supporting and promoting comprehensive health and safety education. They use the Cosmos platform to onboard new clients and manage how their content library is delivered to districts, classrooms, and educators.

The features offered by the Cosmos platform, make it easy for teachers to adopt Health World programs into their classrooms. In particular, the ability to integrate health programs into existing learning management systems (LMSs) has made teaching easier, as there is one less username and password for the teacher to remember.

Singapore Math Inc

The Cosmos platform was selected without a hint of skepticism or doubt.

In 1998, Singapore Math Inc. set out to provide teachers with excellent math materials at an affordable price. The expansion of their digital suite of resources was a natural step to forward that mission and continue to meet the curriculum needs of teachers and students.

Cosmos provides Singapore Math Inc. with a digital solution that is easy to access, intuitive, affordable, and enhances the classroom environment. After exploring myriad options for digital distribution, Singapore Math Inc. chose to collaborate with Cosmos due to their professional team and innovative platform.